DESCRIPTION
This program will provide a practical overview of the mechanism of hemostasis. It will also provide a rational approach to hemostatic testing which includes a discussion on the Mayo approach to testing for bleeding disorders.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES
After participating in this interactive satellite program, participants should be able to:

- Recognize that the most important screening test of hemostasis is the patient’s hemostatic history
- Identify the mechanisms of primary and secondary hemostasis
- Assess the role of screening tests and specific tests of hemostasis
- Determine which tests to order for evaluation of a bleeding patient

WHO SHOULD ATTEND
This program is appropriate for clinicians, pathologists, medical technologists, nurses, pharmacists, and other allied-health staff.
