What to Do if You Are the Victim of a Crime

Your first priority should always be your own safety and that of others who may be in danger. Make a report to local law enforcement and Mayo Security as soon as possible after a crime occurs. Do not disturb or destroy evidence or allow others to so that authorities can investigate the scene.

Mayo's Response to a Report of a Crime

The College of Medicine will cooperate with Mayo Security and local law enforcement officials to promptly investigate all reports of criminal activity as required by Mayo policy. Victims of crimes retain the legal right to pursue criminal charges in addition to any internal investigation or proceedings. College of Medicine will provide reasonable notice to the campus community when information is available related to a crime which poses a continuing threat to specific individuals or the general public. The intent is that this information will allow individuals to take appropriate safety measures. Mayo Security will classify all reports of alleged crimes, both on and off campus, and annually report these statistics as required by the Clery Act.

Policies and Procedures Related to Sexual Assault

Any form of sexual coercion, harassment, abuse or violence is contrary to the values and policies of College of Medicine. Reported allegations of sexual violence will be investigated and handled as described in the Mayo Sexual Harassment Policy. Internal investigations will be conducted in addition to any criminal reporting or investigations by law enforcement officials. The victim and the accused may each bring a support person to any interview or proceeding and are each entitled to general information about the results of the investigation.

If a sexual assault occurs, the victim is encouraged to make a report to local law enforcement and to Mayo Security and get immediate medical and emotional support. Mayo Security will assist and support victims in reporting the incident to law enforcement. At the direction of criminal investigators, Mayo Security will assist in obtaining, securing and maintaining evidence. If you have been physically attacked or sexually assaulted, do not wash or bathe until you have been examined by a health care professional. Even if you do not wish to press charges at the time of the attack, DNA evidence can be taken and preserved so it is available in the event you wish to file charges at a later date.
