Course Description
The 2010 Mayo Clinic Orthopedic 100th Anniversary/Alumni Meeting will highlight innovation and new technology in all areas of orthopedic surgery. This comprehensive program will focus on the evaluation of orthopedic patients with common and unusual problems, and the formation of treatment plans based on contemporary practice and literature.

Faculty will include staff physicians from Mayo Clinic Rochester, Jacksonville and Scottsdale as well as Mayo Orthopedic Alumni.

An extensive social program has been arranged. We hope you will join us for what promises to be an excellent meeting!

Course Learning Objectives
Upon completion of this conference, participants will attain:

• A greater knowledge for the pathology associated with posttraumatic stiffness of upper extremity joints as well as an insight as to the current methods of managing and relieving these functionally disabling contractures.
• An understanding of host variation as it relates to wear debris and osteolysis, and will be apprised of the investigative efforts to provide a pharmacologic and screening solution to this ongoing surgical problem of joint replacement arthroplasty.
• Recognize the current reconstructive options for limb salvaging operations of musculoskeletal malignancies as well as the expected outcomes predicated on the various salvage solutions.
• Detect the possibility of individual host variation in patients who have developed osteolysis following joint replacement and be in a position to advise the patient on possible screening or treatment modalities.
• Discuss with their patients the options of computer assisted surgical procedures and where these procedures are being performed.
• Explain the role of sports medicine in the management of young patients.
• Discuss with their patients current treatment methods for complex hand problems.
• Know more about the treatment methods for adult and pediatric trauma.
