COURSE HIGHLIGHTS AND WEBSITE

Mark your calendar and join us in Maui, Hawaii, for Mayo Clinic's 22nd Annual Advanced Techniques in Endoscopic and Robotic Gynecologic Surgery continuing medical education program! Designed for gynecologists and gynecologic surgeons, this course will provide an in-depth-review of the latest laparoscopic, robotic and hysteroscopic techniques in gynecologic surgery.

The optional Hands-On Laparoscopic and Robotic Suturing Techniques Workshop will be held on October 5 & 6, 2009. Due to participant demand, the workshop will be offered as a morning session and an afternoon session. Participants must indicate the session they will attend. Educational content and faculty are the same for each workshop.

This workshop will provide participants with instructions on basic to advanced laparoscopic suturing techniques with clinical applications through didactic lectures and hands-on work stations. Laparoscopic skills will include:

- Needle delivery
- Suturing
- Intracorporeal and extracorporeal knot-tying
- Morcellation and use of staples
- Suture clips
- Different vessel-sealing devices

A highlight of the workshop will include the introduction of a robotic surgical system to participants. It will bridge the gap between journals, textbooks, surgical atlas, and the operating room by providing practical and technical information not otherwise available.

Visit our course website, www.mayo.edu/cme, for complete agenda, more information about the course, hotel accommodations and to register!
