Program Summary
The main goal of our symposium is to bring together basic science and clinical experts in the field of angiogenesis to facilitate the exchange of ideas and science involving basic biology and pathways of angiogenesis and new anti-angiogenic agents that can be used for specific targeting of tumor blood vessels and stroma. Moreover, the clinician scientists will present the results of ongoing clinical trials on anti-angiogenic therapy. Novel genetic and imaging methods to assess tumor vasculature for monitoring the effectiveness of angiogenic response in the pre-clinical and clinical trials will be discussed in this symposium. Overall, the symposium will assist in establishing strong collaborations among leading national, international, and Mayo Clinic experts in the field.

Learning Objectives
Upon completion of this program, participants should be able to:
• Assess the role of angiogenesis in different pathological situations.
• Analyze the molecular pathways in angiogenesis.
• Identify the importance of angiogenesis in cancer progression and metastasis.
• Evaluate angiogenesis as a potential target for future cancer therapy.
• Establish the therapeutic potential of anti-angiogenic molecules and translate basic science to clinical applications.
• Build a collaborative platform where basic scientists and clinicians can interface.
• Discuss current challenges faced using anti-angiogenic therapy in the clinics.

Intended Audience
• Clinicians involved in cancer-related practice or research
• Laboratory scientists
• Translational researchers
• Industry partners
• Graduate or medical students
• Postdoctoral fellows or residents
• Others with an interest or with backgrounds in cardiovascular biology and developmental biology, myeloma, cancer, angiogenesis and related clinical trials, lymph angiogenesis, extracellular matrix, and anti-angiogenic therapy in differential tumors.

Overview: As part of the 4th Mayo Clinic Angiogenesis Symposium: Angiogenesis and Tumor Microenvironment: Clinical Outcomes, Similarities and Discrepancies a poster session for presentation of original research dedicated to the field of angiogenesis will be held. Any projects that pertain to the training and practice of angiogenesis are welcome. They may include guidelines, randomized trials, outcome studies, practice innovations, or descriptive analyses. Posters will be chosen from all abstracts received by the June 25, 2010, submission deadline.

Abstract Eligibility: Original abstracts that either have or have not been presented at other meetings will be considered. Abstracts are eligible if they have been published; abstracts based upon full papers that have been published are also eligible.

Research Competition: Outstanding abstracts will be selected for poster presentations at the 4th Mayo Clinic Angiogenesis Symposium: Angiogenesis and Tumor Microenvironment: Clinical Outcomes, Similarities and Discrepancies.

Number of Entries: A participant may be the primary author on no more than two abstracts; however, he or she may be a contributing author on any number of abstracts.

Deadline: Abstract submission deadline is Friday, June 25, 2010.

Notification of Results: All primary authors will be notified by Friday, July 30, 2010, if their submission has been selected for the poster session, and details regarding poster set-up will follow.

Printing of Abstracts: Abstracts chosen for presentation will be printed in the course syllabus.

Inquiries: For further information, contact Denise Lecy, Mayo Clinic, via Phone: 507-284-4070, Fax: 507-284-1767, or Email: angiogenesis@mayo.edu.

Abstract Format Instructions:
1. Type abstract in a space of approximately 4 1/2” x 6 1/2”.
2. Type all abstracts in English.
3. Leave one character space (two mm) between the margins and text material.
4. Use 10-point Times New Roman font.
5. Type the title of the abstract in bold, uppercase letters. Do not use abbreviations in the title.
6. Using italics, list the names of all authors (place an asterisk next to the primary author) and the institution, city and state where the work was done.
7. Leave space (one line) after the list of authors and begin typing the main body of the abstract.
8. Indent the first line of the main body of the abstract three spaces.
9. Type single-spaced.
10. Send a computer file of the abstract in Microsoft Word on a CD or diskette or send as an e-mail attachment to: angiogenesis@mayo.edu.
